

Quarterly Sales Overview

Prepared for Leadership Review · Q2 2026

The chart below illustrates our sales performance across the last five product categories. Overall revenue grew moderately compared to the previous quarter, with the strongest gains coming from our flagship line, which continues to outperform expectations despite increased competition in the category.

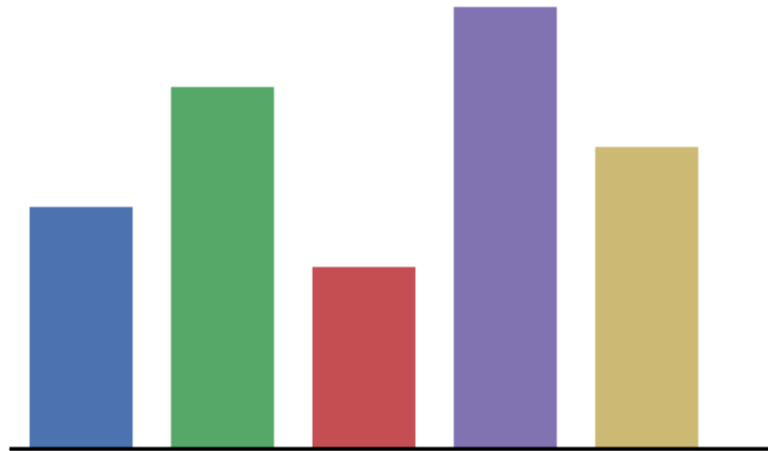

Figure 1: Revenue by product category, in thousands of dollars.

These numbers reflect continued demand despite ongoing supply chain challenges that affected several of our secondary product lines earlier in the year. The team believes this trend will continue into next quarter, barring any unforeseen disruptions to our supplier network.

Notably, our newest product category showed the weakest performance, which the team attributes largely to limited marketing spend during its launch window. A revised promotional strategy is currently being developed for the upcoming quarter.